

Off the Beaten Path - Solution

We next consider the Creatures. These are ordinary clues, though part of the clue has been blurred to make it hard to read. The blurred texts all read some variant of "Cryptid", and we can solve the wordplay halves to find a variety of cryptids. These can be entered as acrosses in the grid, alternatively between black and white cells. Once all are placed, note that every cell on the main diagonal has a letter in it. Reading the diagonal spells BERRY OSCAR MOVIE, a clue for the film MONSTER'S BALL.

Authors' Notes

The answer to this puzzle made us think of cryptids, and we love cryptic crosswords, so creating a cryptid cryptic seemed like an obvious choice. After several YOLO-based setting strategies, we read through the Cryptidz Fandom wiki and created a scored list of cryptids based on notoriety and uniqueness. We also generated several cluephrases that would work across a 15-letter diagonal and used a crossword grid program to generate potential fills.

We considered attempting to come up with literal definitions for the cryptids but decided it would be more thematic to use blurry images of the word "cryptid" instead.

Writing clues was a joint effort. One personal favorite is 1D, which references the iconic cryptic clue by Roger Squires, "Two girls, one on each knee (7)".
